

SECU QUARTERLY

FALL 2017

Auburn to Host SEC Academic Conference on Cyber Security

Auburn University will host the 2018 SEC Academic Conference that will focus on cyber security, April 8-10.

"We welcome our SEC colleagues and cyber professionals to Auburn for dynamic, serious discussions," said Auburn President Steven Leath. "The nation is facing more and more data breaches that affect all facets of daily life. Strategic partnerships among universities and industry are vital in developing the technology and policies to protect private information." Click to read the full story.

Arkansas Wins 2017 SEC Student Pitch Competition

The University of Arkansas won first place in the SEC Student Pitch Competition held at the University of Florida, Nov. 13. The winning team was comprised of Andrew Miles and Witness Martin.

Miles and Martin pitched Grox Industries, a company that utilizes a patent-pending technology to safely synthesize scalable quantities of graphene oxide and stably bond it to a variety of elemental metals. Click to read the full story.

SEC Student Musicians Showcase the Performing Arts

The SEC Student Music Ensemble provided the soundtrack for two events that surrounded the 2017 SEC Football Championship in Atlanta.

"It means a lot to be selected for the SEC Student Music Ensemble," said Auburn's Xavier Scaife. "Not many student musicians are able to say that they have done something of such a high caliber." Click to read the full story.

SEC Calendar of Events

-  Feb. 21-23, 2018: SEC ALDP Spring Workshop (Auburn)
-  April 8-10, 2018: SEC Academic Conference (Auburn)
-  April 12-14, 2018: SEC MBA Case Competition (LSU)
-  April 17-20, 2018: SEC College Tour (Northern California)

News from Around the Conference

Auburn Student Named Rhodes Scholar

MSU Entrepreneurship Research Among the Best in Global Impact

Forbes Ranks Alabama Faculty Member as Top Professor in U.S.

Tennessee Earns Top EPA Award

TheSECU

@TheSECU

SECUniversity

TheSECUniversity